10 major French companies. Each case offers in a clear and structured manner: a case presentation sheet including the problem statement, learning objectives, as well as the main themes and marketing tools used throughout the case; a narrative reviewing important information about the company and its environment, leading to the problem to be investigated; a series of questions guiding the draft of a structured solution; a detailed solution outlining the main strategic recommendations. Based on real issues and written in collaboration with the companies, the 10 field-based case studies allow applying marketing principles, theories and models: segmentation, positioning, marketing plan, as well as designing strategies at the product, price, place and promotion levels.

Most business schools use case studies in their courses. However, these are typically based on past cases and assigned to students to solve. This book describes a new approach for teaching with case studies, which was developed and applied successfully at TUM School of Management. In this approach, student teams write and solve their own case study on a topic concerning current and future businesses. A case can thus be on their own startup or a strategic decision of existing companies. During the course, the students receive intensive coaching while selecting and developing the case topic by the course advisors as well as feedback by industry experts

This study examines the patterns and trends on both the theory and practice in the field of Strategic Management in the Global Advertising Industry.

Strategy is considered as an appeal to rational decision-making rather than to instinct. In a business organisation, such performances will focus on creating value for profit and guiding the company towards the future in a changing environment. This study looks at the drivers of the changes in the Global Advertising Industry and proposes some solutions for management issues in this industry.
