Idealism and materialism are two important theories or rather groupings of theories that are used to describe social events. Materialism, as the name implies, is all about the importance of materials or matter, whereas idealism gives reality the central importance in life. The two models of philosophy are not exclusive or mutual to each other as there are many similarities.

File:James Hopwood Jeans.jpg. In philosophy, idealism is the group of philosophies which assert that reality, or reality as we can know it, is fundamentally mental, mentally constructed, or otherwise immaterial. Epistemologically, idealism manifests as a skepticism about the possibility of knowing any mind-independent thing. In a sociological sense, idealism emphasizes how human ideas ...

Definitions. Idealism is a term with several related meanings. It comes via Latin idea from the Ancient Greek idea (ιδέα) from idein (ιδεῖν), meaning "to see". The term entered the English language by 1743. It was first used in the abstract metaphysical sense "belief that reality is made up only of ideas" by Christian Wolff in 1747. The term re-entered the English language in this ...
